For the first time, FIFA Online will also be free-to-play. The Taipei 2019 Premier League: Turkey, Japan, and New Zealand will host FIFA 19's inaugural 'Taipei 2019' tournament, taking place during the FIFA Interactive World Cup Taipei 2019. FIFA 21 introduced several new innovations, including the "Freekick" and "Pass Pause" contextual tools (which allow the user to take a shot while the ball is in motion, as well as changing the direction of a pass while ball is in motion). To power these new tools, the on-ball physics behavior has been improved, allowing players to more accurately replicate how they would strike a ball in real life. This year, the Frostbite Engine has also been upgraded, to allow the game to better accommodate the hyper-high-speed nature of soccer, as well as physically and visually present players and their ball carrier and teammates in a more realistic fashion. FIFA 22 introduces "HyperMotion Technology", which uses data collected from players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power gameplay, with the Frostbite Engine changing to support that gameplay. "FIFA is the most revered football game out there. I'm a self-confessed World Cup addict, but even more than that, I love football in general. So for me to be able to finally see a game that was clearly designed from the ground up with that in mind, and which makes me feel just as immersed in the sport of football as I used to feel when playing it myself, has been phenomenal." "It's not just the speed of the game, or the footballing intelligence that makes this release special, it's everything. The way the players talk, the animations, and the game world – everything. I've been playing it for the last three or four weeks now,
