Razortron 2000 [32|64bit]

Description: This game is part of the third season of the Virtual Reality Franchiage:BARBAROSSA. We present you "Orkhon Inscriptions" game, a realistic experience that has no other purpose but to let you explore the history of Mongolia, Turkic empire and the north in 5D: Immersion, HD quality, threeD animation. This new VR videogame has been specially created by BRUNO AUXERRE, Director of the RENOVATION. It is our first and very first project based on the Virtual Reality (VR). Concept of the Game : In 1889, the Danish philologist, Vilhem Thomsen discovered an engraved monument in the valley of the Orkhon river, a Turkish writing in the Orkhon language. For two years, this monument was ignored by the local tribes and the translators of the National Museum in Saint Petersburg. It was only in 1893 that Thomsen deciphered the writing in Orkhon script, published in the Copenhagen Scientific Society's bulletin. This writing appeared to date back to the 7th century AD. It was found on three large tablets: one dedicated to the Turkish prince Kl, the second to the famous Turanian emperor Bilge and the third to the councelor Tonyukuk. These inscriptions consist of a large narrative poem of the origins of the Turks and the Turanian people, the golden age of their history and their territorial expansion throughout Asia. To be published under the direction of The Royal Geographical Society in Copenhagen, these inscriptions would later become known as the Orkhon Inscriptions. From a game design perspective, the game starts by offering players a scene in the vicinity of the archaeological site where the Orkhon Inscriptions are discovered. The player then, transports in a virtual time machine, to the Orkhon valley where the turanian people discover the inscriptions, in the year 888 AD. The initial tablet consists of an epic narrative to the king Kl and his son Tonyukuk. After, the other two tablets are unlocked and introduce the main characters of the Orkhon Inscriptions: Bilge, the Turanian emperor and councelor of the four khans, and Khitaruk, the king's brother and Turanian prince. As the player proceeds, he / she will be transported in the valley of the Orkhon river and in the west of the region is now available! Thank you for playing Pax Nova, and thank you for your patience. It has been some time since we've released a major update, and with our studio growing and shifting members, we wanted to do two things at once: give you the biggest update in a while, and help you shore up your characters, since they need a bit of work to get some more fitting versions. Pax Nova - Beyond the Rift "The Unchartered"s is a complete overhaul of Pax Nova, with many main story missions and the introduction of a new dimension and alternate class: the Rift. Our current player interest in this dimension far exceeded our initial expectations, so we decided to make it a major update. This means more free content, a better story and a new skill, Riftology, that gives our rifter's unique powers. On a related note, we also learned that, apart from event bonuses, permanent upgrades will receive an extra increase in experience gain. To make this more accessible, we've also lowered the contribution that individual battle tickets bring. In most cases, the experience contribution is enough to level-up a character in one hour, and the battle tickets you're given are now directly converted to skill points. With all this, we're confident you will find Beyond the Rift enthralling… and depressing. We wanted to make this major update happen sooner, but it wasn't quite possible because of a few factors: moving to the new studio, the time it takes to work on content of this scope – we want to be sure our updates are quite exceptional, and not just an incremental improvement or an extension of what we already delivered -, and the time we needed to get the balance of classes right. With more content than ever before, the formula to balance it is much more important now that it has been forever. From the beginning, we've strived to balance opposing forces: speed and firepower, traditional and new skills, no random generation. In our previous builds, we had always a certain amount of game time available to us, so we were able to pick and choose what we liked from thousands of combinations. With the free-to-play version, you'll still have this limitation, but we'll now have a dedicated balance team that can test the different possibilities to keep things balanced, while you can explore the new environment. We may still change things in the final draft
