A stochastic approach for trajectory determination and control of human motion. The control of human motion is one of the most important research fields in human-robot interaction (HRI). The emergence of the field required the understanding of the complexity and the ambiguity of human movement. However, the difficulty in controlling motion of human is not only due to their unpredictability, but also due to the complexity of the body structure and the physiological limits of human motor control. The present work aims to determine the main goals and constraints of the human motion and the effect of their physical limits in the planning and control of human movement. To this end, a new stochastic trajectory generation model for human motion based on the momentum method and the constrained Langevin model is proposed. This trajectory generation model considers the effect of the physical limits of human on the motion and does not use any prior motion information to avoid the problem of calibration and the computational cost of the optimization process. Also, the user intent constraints and the regularization method are proposed to achieve the purpose of human motion planning. The results of the validation and verification tests, using a set of human motion trajectories, show that the proposed stochastic trajectory planning model is able to better track the human motion than existing methods.

Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg () was a House of Oldenburg in the north German state of Schleswig-Holstein. The Sonderburg-Augustenburgs originated as Danish vassals of the House of Oldenburg. The current ruling family of this branch, however, has their origin in the prince-electors of the Holy Roman Empire, Christian II of Denmark and Norway, who in 1613 had married countess Juliane of Solms-Braunfels, daughter of the Holstein-Gottorp prince, Ernest Frederick, Duke of Brunswick-Lüneburg.

History The main line of the family, the House of Augustenburg, became extinct in the male line in 1771. The line was, however, not fully accepted as a dynasty by the people of the Duchy of Holstein-Gottorp. Since 1667, the Holstein line of the House of Oldenburg-Delmenhorst has ruled in the duchy. This line was founded by the first consort of Christian II, Magdalene Sophie, who was a natural daughter of Christian I, Duke of Holstein-Gottorp, and at the time was a princess of Denmark and Norway. She was a paternal granddaughter of king Frederick III of Denmark, and a maternal granddaughter of the kings

Christian III of Denmark and Charles I of Sweden. House of Oldenburg-Delmenhorst After the death of Ernest Frederick in 1680, Christian II adopted his son into the family line, and the house of Augustenburg was recognised by the courts of Denmark and of the Holy Roman Empire. The family took the names Christian Frederick (H: Christian Fredrik; D: Christian Frederik) and Christian Augustus (H: Christian August; D: Christian Augustus). However, in 1691, Ernest Frederick's sons, Christian August and his younger brother, Friedrich August, fought a bloody civil war, and each of them was proclaimed as the sole ruler of the duchy of Holstein-Gottorp. After Christian August's death in 1708, his cousin, Christian Frederick of Holstein-Gottorp, became the Duke of Holstein-Gottorp. House of Augustenburg-Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg The Holstein-Gottorp line became extinct with Christian Frederick in 1731. The duchy passed to his elder son, Friedrich III, who was the last duke of the House of Old
