Is it possible to create individual style-sheets for various types and varieties of face photos? Would it be possible to add an effect to one object, but to change it for other categories of objects? And how do I do this? Are there any plans to develop the style function in Lightroom any further?

The impression I got from the previous version was that it was simple to find and use a preset, although the functionality was riveting. The 'Lightroom Classic Presets for Lightroom 5' have been released! Have a look at the Lightroom website for the free presets and try them out directly to see if you like them, and if you do, buy them to lock them into an edit! There's a selection of presets for different types of portraits, romantic shots, nature, backlit subjects, Boudoir, night, party and many more! I'm interested to see if some of the other presets will be released in a similar fashion. Although it's a good idea for you to test-drive some of them, a beta version of the software may be available at some point, so be sure to keep your eyes peeled for updates. If you're new to all this, a good start would be to purchase the Landscape series. They are based on creative techniques and with the result you can print beautiful photographs. They are fairly priced, as they come with a year's membership. Their team is very skilled in dealing with photographers and printers and even have Photoshop classes running alongside them. However, it is necessary to have an understanding of composition and choosing the best shot before even going to them. You can email them at support@artprint.ca and start with the Landscape series .
